

Beacon – Acumatica’s Learning Portal

Beacon is the new knowledge portal for Customers and Partners. The Public will have access as they used to do with Open University.

Beacon.Acumatica.com

If you already have an Acumatica Portal Account, you can sign into Beacon with the same credentials. Otherwise, Beacon will lead you through creating an account after you click on the “Create an account” button.

Information within Beacon

Product Documentation

This section includes guides for daily work like Accounts Payable processing, Order Management, Reporting and many others. There is even a guide for implementing Acumatica itself. That guide breaks down the process and provides comprehensive explanations of variables and how best to configure them.

Release Notes for each version of Acumatica round out the knowledge in this section of Beacon.

Video Library

Undoubtedly, this will be one of the most popular sections of Beacon for new hires and existing users alike. The first video to pop up introduces Acumatica navigation. There are videos for all aspects of the ERP. The videos are short, topic focus and cover key workflows and features.

Job Aids

These are all downloadable! There are user guides, release notes, and possibly the ones to be most excited about are the Job Aids that provide quick reference guides for workflows that you can print and hand to new users; e.g., Project Accounting and Administration.

Developer Resources

A couple of the greatest advantages of Acumatica is its open API and low code / no code customization capabilities. Beacon has a whole section of knowledge to help your organization use these features.

Additional Sections

In addition to the sections above, Beacon provides explanations of Known Issues, reports on solutions prepared by the Acumatica support team in the Knowledge Base section, and, lastly, is the new home for Training Materials.

Knowledge at Your Fingertips

Beacon is now the home for all the knowledge you need for supporting your Acumatica instance. The usability of the site gets high marks because you can actually find the information you seek. Try it!
